

The annual Bald Eagle Festival in Fort Seward, Alaska is the impetus for the circumstantial meeting of Jordie Halle, a young bush pilot from Fairbanks, and Kotaa Hotch, a member of the Eagle clan of the Lingit community in the neighboring village of Kooteeyaa. An eight-day assignment in Fort Seward begins as a simple change of venue for Jordie and her single-engine Cessna but evolves into a flight of discovery. Her introduction to Kotaa provides him with the "discovery of flight" as a means of liberating himself from the responsibilities of the future and the painful memories of the past. Never far from the fray stands Yaate.aan, a beautiful Lingit woman of the Raven clan and Kotaa's lifelong friend. Threads of happenstance weave a tapestry of love, family and tradition guided by the wisdom of Naa Shaadei Haani, the tribal leader of the Eagle moiety. The mythical stories and rich symbolism of the Lingit culture impact the lives of everyone in this compelling tale set in the land of the Northern Lights.
